The restaurant offers a wide variety of meats including local cuts, as well as options from Australia and the USA. While the prices are on the higher side, the quality of the meat and the service make it worth the spend. The well-marinated lamb and veal skewers are some of the best around. The restaurant is praised for its perfect steaks and sides, with a good selection of wines. Service is friendly, although busy nights may lead to longer wait times. Overall, a great spot for quality beef dishes.
